Fighting Food Insecurity, One Garden at a Time

The GardenWorks Project (GWP) is a 501c3 non-profit organization dedicated to addressing food insecurity in the western suburbs of Chicago. Our mission is to foster a more food-secure future by providing supplies, support, and education for household, community, group home, and market-to-pantry gardens.

GWP actively promotes the donation of surplus produce by all food growers to local food pantries to enhance food equity and accessibility to those facing food insecurity.

We welcome company volunteer days, providing an impactful team-building experience.

Won't you join us in the fight against hunger in our community?

Corporate and business sponsorships play a vital role in supporting The GardenWorks Project by:

Providing essential garden supplies, including soil and seedlings, to individuals experiencing food insecurity, enabling them to grow their own food.

Facilitating the establishment of community gardens at various sites, including community centers, group homes, and food pantries.

Ensuring the transportation of community garden harvests to local food pantries, contributing to the overall effort to alleviate food insecurity.

Offering educational resources to empower all food growers with the knowledge and skills needed for successful cultivation.
